

Information for FY1 trainees regarding “Tasters”

Definition

A “taster” is an opportunity for you to experience working in a speciality which you are seriously considering as a career. Most “tasters” will last 5 days. During your “taster” you will be encouraged to work independently under supervision within that speciality

Timing

Tasters should be done in time for the “Specialty” application process.

Specialities

The following is a list of specialities that you may like to do a “taster” in. The list is by no means exhaustive and should you be interested in a different speciality please let us know and we will find a suitable “Taster Supervisor.”

Procedure

Trainees wishing to do a taster must discuss their plans with both their Educational Supervisor and the FY1 Training Programme Director. They must then get in touch with the relevant Educational Supervisor of their chosen “taster” speciality to discuss timings and educational objectives. If agreed the trainee must then fill in the “Taster Application Form” (See Appendix A). This form requests details regarding educational objectives and how they will be met (e.g. by completion of reflective project, or presentation) as well as signatures from the Taster Supervisor, Clinical Manager of current post and FY1 Training Programme Director.

The form must be filled in at least 6 weeks before the date of the taster. At the end of the taster the trainee must fill in a reflective piece/project/presentation relating to the learning objectives of the taster. A copy must be sent to the FY1 Training Programme Director.

If the trainee has decided to take Study Leave in order to complete the “taster session”, they must complete the study leave form (See Appendix B). This must also be submitted at least 6 weeks prior to the “taster” session taking place.

Rules

It is the trainees responsibility to liaise with the department manager, his/her consultant, rest of team and rota coordinator to book leave. This must be done at least 6 weeks in advance of date. It is the trainees responsibility to swap on-call duties if necessary.
